

TO PUSH THE REAL WORK.

FINANCES OF THE GREAT FAIR.

THE MAYOR CALLS COMMITTEEMEN TO MEET NEXT WEEK AND LAY THEIR HEADS TOGETHER.

Preparations to push the real work of the International Exposition were begun yesterday. Mayor Grant issued requests to the members of the Committee on Finances to meet in the Governor's Room in the City Hall on Tuesday next at 3:30 p.m. He caused similar notices to be sent to the members of the Committee on Site and Buildings to meet at the same place on the Thursday following at the same hour.

The Mayor calls the Finance Committee together first because he thinks that the plans for raising money should receive the first attention. An early organization of the Site and Buildings Committee is also necessary so that the proposed sites may be investigated and that question be settled as soon as possible. The committees on Legislation and Permanent Organization will have no duties to perform until the Committee on Finance has defined its plan and the Committee on Site and Buildings has made an estimate of the cost of the various sites and buildings. The Mayor trusts that every member of each of these committees who can be present at the meetings next week will attend. The committees have been called together next week instead of this week in order to give time to secure the personal attendance of each of the members.

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

A HOWLING CROWD OF YOUNG TIGERS.

WHEN NEWSBOYS STRIKE THEY DO IT FROM THE SHOULDER—AGAINST "RASEN DE PRIZE."

"Slug de Kid! He's a dode" was the signal for a small riot in West Forty-second-st., yesterday afternoon, caused by the raise in the wholesale price of "The Evening Sun" and "The Evening World" from 10 cents a hundred to 60 cents a hundred papers. A conglomeration crowd of boys, ragged and dirty, with disheveled hair, surged up and around an "Evening Sun" cart, and the subject of the above remark was a youngster with a comparatively clean shirt, who was with a few comrades, attempting to get out of the crowd with a bundle of papers. The boy was cut and kicked unmercifully and the papers he carried were torn to pieces. This petty act of tyranny excited the juvenile rioters, and with yells of exultation the crowd rushed on the wagon swarming all over it, and in a trice 1,000 papers were torn up and scattered over the street, and it was with difficulty that the driver succeeded in getting away with the wagon. Not a single paper did he save.

At Thirty-third-st. and Broadway, and at Houston-st., the same scenes occurred, but with less violence. Boys by the hundred thumped one another in their eagerness to destroy, and they all seemed to enjoy the work immensely regardless of kicks and scratches. In Fronting House Square and Park Row the newsboys gathered in knots, and in some instances when a despot attempted to dispose of his wares threats of tearing up his papers were freely made, and in a few instances carried out. A meeting of the Newsboys' Union will be held Friday night.

Business Manager Patcock, of "The Evening Sun," said in explanation of the strike: "The whole trouble is over a rise in the price of the paper 1-6 of a cent a copy for all papers delivered above Canal-st. The Evening sun, wishing to put its stamp on the strike, which it had won a prize or to be redeemed. Whether it has won a prize or to be redeemed. The loan is to amount to $100,000,000, divided into 10,000 series, each series having 10,000 bonds, and are to be drawn in five years, with drawings annually.

In this case, the general manager of the Assets State Debeture Company, of No. 42 New-st., wrote a long letter to Mayor Grant yesterday. The General Palace of London thirty-five years ago, he says, upwants $100,000,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan association, the purpose being to exemplify this system of co-operation.

A suggestion comes for a site in the Twenty-third Ward.

A. Z. Zeisler writes, saying that he knows that the Committee of the State of New-York prohibits the sale of lottery tickets, but that he has a plan to submit which would enable the raising of the $100,000 necessary for the Exposition from a lottery ticket plan. He says that $100,000 bonds could be raised by selling $100,000 worth of lottery tickets, and two months ago they thought had it perfected. There was a temporary hitch, however, and the news of the proposed lottery leaked out, and the trade, seeing the great movement, then after laying off and vacating engagements, but they have not given up their scheme by any means. They will soon come together, in my opinion, and make a hard and fast agreement that will hold."

The tobacco trade wrote yesterday, indorsing the appointment of William Wicks to represent them. "The Hat Review" and "The Fur Trade Review" offer their services through their Editor, F. Stalnach.

Charles E. Southard makes application for necessary space on which to erect an "ideal American home" at $10,000, through the medium of a mutual building loan